To Whom It May Concern:

Spectrum Commercial Real Estate Solutions has enlisted the services of HoverOne Drones several times in the last year. HoverOne Drones worked tirelessly to give us their best quality work. I was impressed with the outcome of their service and plan to use them again in the future.

We hired HoverOne Drones to inspect two of our residential buildings in Denver respectively 8 stories and 14 stories high. At the first location, we needed to see the integrity of the stucco on two sides of the building and very specific areas with notation of any issues. The second building we needed to observe and scrutinize all 4 sides of the building to see the stability of all windows and balconies on this large building. There was a lot of area to cover on this project and we needed clear detailed visuals for both projects.

The drone inspections gave impeccable clarity in both steady video quality and impressive pictures that gave us answers now and reference to keep for the future. Both inspection video results allowed us to see problems immediately in which we were able to attend to, saving our company thousands of dollars. What I respect most of HoverOne Drones is their neutral professionalism. They aren't trying to sell me anything. They are presenting truth and evidence that is clear and concise. I have immaculate video that I get to keep and refer to anytime I need, which is priceless. This precise video documentation allows my company to save money and make accurate decisions to better manage our properties and keep our clients happy.

Spectrum Commercial Real Estate Solutions will continue to use HoverOne as they match our professional values of producing work and services that are efficient, high quality, responsible and diligent.

Sincerely,
